Caccaro's Freedhome Is Space Saving Storage Concept For Modern Homes

Keeping the innovation for modern living in mind, Italian furniture-designing firm Caccaro has created Freedhome storage concept. It's a revolutionary design that's meant to transform all traditional home furnishing schemes and blend into distinct environments.

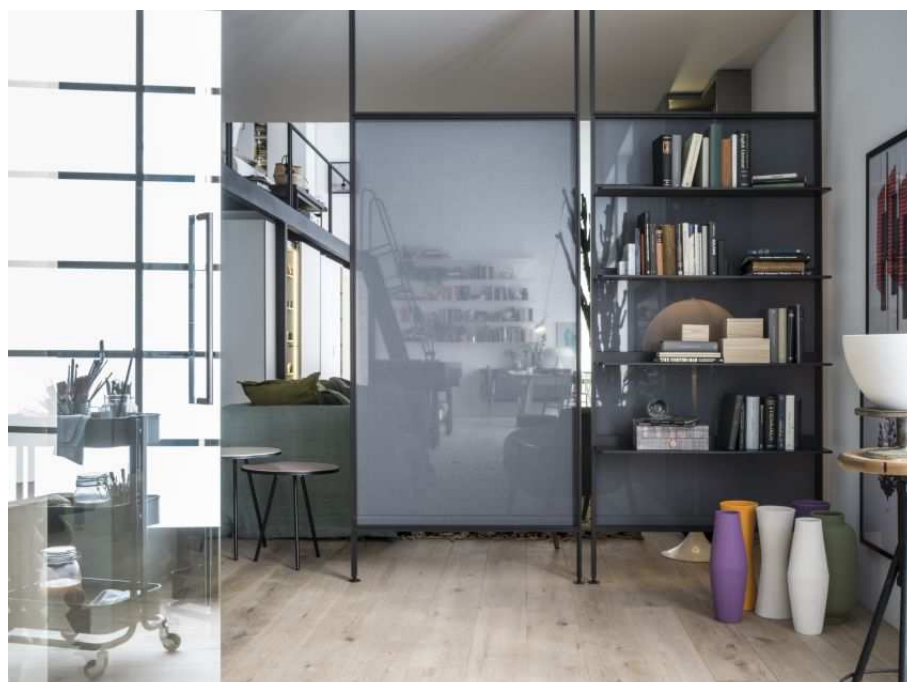

It boasts a flexible layout, which enables this furniture to fit into any room of your house – be it kitchen, bedroom or living room. The walls are white canvases that blend into the surrounding environment, while the vertical spaces can be customized as per the needs of the user and available space.

The cabinets are no bigger than simple containers, so it becomes easier for the user to organize things. It comes in a variety of styles, materials, and colors – each can be mixed and matched just like a tailored suit.

The clean and rigorous design of the cabinet comes integrated with lighting, which becomes the protagonist, transforming the residential space into pure emotion. It is one amazing piece of space saving furniture that will integrate into modern homes for storage, without making the available space look too cluttered.

Furthermore, the firm has finished the product with special water-based paints for domestic environments. All thanks to these eco-friendly paints there will be no negative impact on the planet.

For now, it is just a concept, but you can catch the Freedhome collection at the Salone del Mobile in Milan (Pavilion 6, Stand C25-D22) from 17 to 22 April 2018.
