Freedhome optimises space at home

Freedhome ... transforms domestic space.

Caccaro's revolutionary Freedhome storage concept makes it possible to completely re-interpret home environments, allowing freedom to individuals to tailor their homes to their taste.

“Caccaro has always stood out in the design-furniture market for its highly innovative character, and now proposes a new concept in modern living, which focuses on the individual, with his/her tastes and peculiarities,” says a spokesman for the Italian furniture specialist.

With the new concept, a wall is no longer just a simple flat surface that supports the structure of the house, but becomes a white canvas, a vertical space to be personalised by exploiting, according to individual needs, the unexpressed potential of its storage space.

Freedhome overcomes traditional furnishing schemes. Thanks to innovative functional elements and to complete dimensional adaptability, the modules of Freedhome make it flexible, to furnish all home interiors, from the kitchen to the bedroom, the living area and the service areas.

“The new ‘Made in Caccaro’ total living collection blends with a clean and rigorous design, in which the integrated lighting also becomes the protagonist, transforming domestic space into pure emotion,” the spokesman adds.

All products are finished with special water-based paints to suit domestic environments.
